

FRANKEN

FOOD

- Kenzie Maclaren -

Some people like to get...creative with food. The thing is that these creations can either look mouth wateringly delicious or just plain disgusting. I would say that most of these "Frankenfoods" are mostly more on the gross side because I feel that if I eat any of these things, my arteries will automatically clog up and I will have heart failure, which isn't necessarily the best thing in the world. I probably shouldn't rant about how bad this stuff is for you because I am probably going to make sarcastic comments throughout this entire piece. Keep in mind, each of these items are well over 1000 calories.

This creation has been dubbed the Big Mac n Cheese. I love mac n cheese and burgers as much as the next person, but 3 layers of mac n cheese and 2 burger patties. No man, come on. How does your mouth even fit around that? There is no way that the Big Mac n Cheese will look as perfect in the picture than when someone is eating it.

Why is it that the most "interesting" things are made in Japan? The "Black Burger" was introduced in Japan with black buns and a unique kind of ketchup. The buns include an apparently edible ingredient called bamboo charcoal. The ketchup...well... it's made of squid ink.

A chocolate chip grilled cheese. One word, 2 letters, ew. These 2 things are not supposed to go together. Some code has been violated here. Cheese, great. Cookies, great. Melted cheese on cookies, not so great. I don't know, maybe some people might like this. It's probably more of an acquired taste.

Ahhh, the bacon sundae. Of course you know that there was going to be SOMETHING in here with bacon in it. I'm not even surprised that this is actually a thing. I have seen so many things with bacon lately, it's almost expected that there would be a bacon sundae. To be honest, I would probably try this, and then feel the regret seep in as I realize that I just ate ice cream topped with bacon.

I am including this particular food 95% because the name for this is just great. This is a brownie and a donut mixed together, as you can see. Obviously, this food isn't really as crazy as the others but its name just blows the rest of the other Frankenfoods out of the water. Its name is, wait for it, a Bronut. I realize that it's not even that clever because it's just a mixture of the words "donut" and "brownie," but it just like, blew my mind. The next thing I know people are going to be calling each other bronut.

Whoever decided to mix bacon and s'mores together is either a genius or an idiot. It just depends what a person is willing to try. Basically, the bacon is covered in marshmallow and graham cracker crumbs, and then dipped in melted chocolate.

Pizza is my one of my many weaknesses. I'm sure it is for a lot of people, but a french fry pizza? I have mixed feelings about this. Just looking at the picture makes me confused because I love french fries, and I love pizza, but I'm not sure if I like them together.

There are many Frankenfoods out there and I could go on for days and days. I mean, I've seen some pretty scary stuff. I'm almost certain that I am going to have a nightmare about drowning in a bacon sundae or getting eaten alive by a cheese cookie. To be honest, I'd probably try every single one of these even though some of them kind of disgust me. Why? You only live once, that's why.

FRANKEN FOOD